ABOUT ME

I have always been a curious and enthusiastic individual and I always want to learn new things or new skills from someone, somewhere or just by myself, as i am always looking for ways to do things the easy way, short time but does have quality. I also enjoy working with a team setting goals, exchanging ideas and finishing projects together excites me just like how I love to travel and do things for the first time, the adventure and thrill is somewhat more challenging. Same applies with how I do my work, I'd like to challenge myself in handling new projects or new responsibilities, because I believe continuous improvement is essential in life.
